Objectifs

At the end of this module, students will be able to:

- take part in group discussions, focussing on fluency and accuracy, including talking about trends, graphs and figures
- understand oral and written texts relating to finance, accounting and the economy (listening and reading)
- plan and write business contexts including reports
- use zero, first and second conditional forms correctly
- use relative pronouns correctly
- use a specified range of noun and preposition combinations correctly
- evaluate own language level on the CEFR and set appropriate learning goals with the help of the teacher

Topics: Finance and Accounting

Lessons in this module are based on the theme of finance and accounting. Classwork will involve speaking activities concerning these themes and related vocabulary work, in addition to work on specific grammar points. Regular work on authentic texts and recordings from the business Media on finance and accounting will help students to improve their reading and listening comprehension.

Written work deals with reports. This involves greater focus on structuring and developing texts than in previous modules, as well as correcting typical errors. A key focus in this module is the ability to describe and compare trends based on statistics, charts and graphs.

Students should aim to have reached B2 in both speaking and writing at the end of this module.
